Saturday Seminar Celebrating the 100th Anniversary of
Cora Wilson Stewart's Moonlight Schools

Sat., October 8th 10 - 2pm

Presented by: Dr. Yvonne Baldwin

University of Kentucky Archives

This one day seminar will focus on Cora Wilson Stewart & the creation of the Moonlight Schools, which originated in Eastern Ky. and became a national crusade to eliminate illiteracy. At a time when the outside world looked at Appalachia as the "land that time forgot," the attention it brought to the region reinforced some of the negative stereotypes even as it dramatically enhanced literacy statistics. Participants will examine historical artifacts and documents, including photographs, and will sharpen their "detective" skills as they learn how to draw conclusions from the various types of sources and resources historians use to
