

*"In 2010, the entire equestrian world is coming to Lexington.
Come join us for this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."*

Jim Newberry, Mayor, Lexington, KY

8 WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS. 16 DAYS. ONE WORLD-CLASS CITY.

Horses aren't just loved in Lexington, they're revered. Which is one reason Lexington and Kentucky's Bluegrass region were chosen to host what will be the biggest sporting event in the United States since the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City – the 2010 Alltech FEI World Equestrian Games. It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see the world championships in 8 equestrian sports, right here (for the first time ever) in the U.S. Don't miss it!

"Grey Thoroughbred and Jockey in Red Silks" by Andre Pater, a native of Poland who now lives in Lexington. Pater is represented by the Crossgate Gallery.

From my childhood, I was always crazy about horses. The horse is a strong, powerful animal; it's very graceful.

About 20 years ago, I was living in Dallas and traveling to paint horses. Once I had an appointment in Lexington. I took the wrong exit onto Paris Pike. It was absolutely gorgeous: autumn, falling leaves, people riding, all those farms. It was unreal. I thought, "I am dreaming. I want to move here." Kentucky is really very special; I enjoy every day.
