

Volunteers Needed for Parkinson's Disease Research Study

Researchers at the University of Kentucky, Department of Neurology, are conducting a study of the impact of creatine, an investigational drug, on slowing the clinical decline in patients with Parkinson's Disease.

You may qualify for this study if you:

- Have been diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease within the last five years;
- You have been using medication to treat the symptoms of Parkinson's Disease for more than 90 days but less than two years;
- You have no unstable medical conditions; and
- You are not intolerant to creatine.

Qualified participants will receive all study-related laboratory and clinical evaluations and the research medication without charge.
